

Why is switchover happening region by region? Can't it all be done at once?

Contributed by Administrator
Wednesday, 20 February 2008

Switchover is happening by region to minimise interference between different transmitters and reduce any risks of disruption to the implementation plan. Over 1,000 transmitters have to be converted to digital operation and it is not practical to complete this in less than about four years.